Game

Extreme Giftwrapping

You'll need several boxes of different sizes, wrapping paper, oven mitts or gloves, a pair of dice, and a small gift. Place a gift inside the smallest box and wrap it. Place that box inside a slightly larger box and wrap it, continuing until you've wrapped the biggest box. Everyone sits in a close circle on the floor. The first player wears gloves or mitts and the second player holds the dice. Player one begins unwrapping the box while the second player rolls the dice trying to get doubles. Player one attempts to unwrap the box before doubles are rolled. When doubles are rolled, pass the box and gloves to the second player, the dice to the third player. The box and dice continues around until the last box is open. The player opening the last box wins the gift.

Craft

Epsom Salt Snowflake Painting

Materials needed: Epsom salt, white school glue in squeeze bottle, black or blue construction paper, box or bowl to dump unused salt into. Draw snowflakes and this weeks Bible verse on paper with squeeze bottle glue (they can pencil it in first if they wish). Carefully sprinkle Epsom salt over glue and then carefully move your paper so that the salt covers every glue area. Let remaining salt slide off page into a box or bowl. (NOTE: Do not let the children eat the Epsom salt, as it is a laxative!)

Bible Skill

Tic Tac Tic Tac Toe

You'll need to buy enough Tic Tac mint containers for everyone to have one when the game is over, but buy them in at least two colors, a "next" type bell or small battery operated touch lights (shown), review questions for today's Bible story. Divide into two teams. The kids line up in two lines. Place bells or touch lights on table in front of the two lines. Each child lays his hand flat on the table beside the bell or light. Ask the review question and the first child who presses the bell or touch light may answer. If the answer is correct, the child places his team's color tic tac on the tic tac toe board. The first team to make a tic tac toe wins! It may help to put the tic tac toe board on another table to keep the pieces from shifting.
